Hear what our partners have to say...

“ True interoperability is not just working towards standards, but working in partnership with an ecosystem of suppliers to achieve the right data being available at the right time and a meaningful experience for users. We’re pleased to work with our partners at Netcall to achieve such a vision.

PATIENTS KNOW BEST®
MANAGE YOUR HEALTH

“ At EIDO we know that informed consent is about partnership, not just in the shared decision-making between patients and clinicians, but also with partners who understand that no single system can optimally do everything. We are proud to work together to produce patient-centred solutions to support wide-ranging clinical workflows.

Matthew Ravenscroft, UK Sales & Customer Care Director

“ It is vital that healthcare providers can take advantage of an ecosystem of likeminded technology-based businesses across a cross section of industries. An ecosystem can work together to achieve the right outcomes for both patients and healthcare providers alike without conflict of interest.

Tom Baldock, Managing Director

“ Patients interact with multiple systems and organisations throughout their care, so it’s critical that those systems and organisations work together effectively. Channel 3 is passionate about the fact that effective transformation always starts with the patient need at its heart, supported by a strong, innovative ecosystem to deliver what’s required.
